Investing in the future of family medicine

Supporter Opportunities

The California Academy of Family Physicians (CAFP) invites you to be part of Family Medicine POP, to join us as we celebrate the prism of practice and the spectrum of family medicine. This vibrant gathering, co-hosted by CAFP and the CAFP Foundation, brings together a dynamic learning community, ranging from medical students and residents, attendings to faculty, and early career physicians to active physicians.

As California's largest educational event for current and future family physicians, Family Medicine POP is also home to the largest gathering of Family Medicine Residency Programs in the state. For our supporters, there will be opportunities to connect with the next generation of family physicians in new and meaningful ways.

A range of supporter opportunities is available, providing meaningful ways to engage with CAFP members and highlight organizations in a way that best aligns with their goals. General meeting support offers valuable visibility through pre and post conference emails, webinars, and social media recognition. In addition, the conference app, CAFP website, and social media channels extend brand exposure beyond conference attendees to primary care providers across California. Supporter status also includes the opportunity to exhibit. However, for those interested in exhibiting only, a separate exhibitor option is available.

Why Support Family Medicine POP?

Visibility and Recognition

Family Medicine POP offers unmatched exposure, positioning organizations in front of California's key family physicians, residents, and medical students. Primary care providers value the businesses and organizations that invest in their specialty and their professional growth. Attendees include CAFP's Board of Directors, CAFP Foundation's Board of Trustees, the Student-Resident Council, and leading voices from all practice settings, ensuring that support is seen and appreciated by those shaping the future of family medicine.

Champion Family Medicine

Supporting POP is more than just sponsorship, it is a commitment to the heart of primary care. Family medicine is built on the following core values: preventing illness before it begins, treating the whole patient, building healthy communities, stewarding resources responsibly, improving access to care, and fostering a diverse physician workforce. By investing in this event, organizations play an essential role in strengthening these principles and advancing the specialty.

Engage with Top Medical Professionals

POP is expected to welcome more than 500 family physicians, primary care clinicians, medical students, residents, and family medicine residency faculty from a wide range of education, training, and health care settings. Supporting Family Medicine POP is a strategic way to build relationships, showcase innovations and solutions, and contribute to the future of primary care in California.
